INTRODUCTION

Ave,

Welcome to the simplified edition of Sanguinomicon: The Vampyre Lexicon. This is the open source version and companion text for the 3rd edition of the Sanguinomicon. This document will be able to be downloaded as a PDF from the Rakasha Books website.

Feel free to update your lexicons and personal dictionaries. There will be a more detailed edition with the Strigoi Vii glyphs, expanded definitions and the Elorathian alphabet available in early 2009.

Please make sure you know the notes next to each of the terms; ¹ are specifically within the Strigoi Vii “Elorathian” language. Ex. Abbon, Ramkht, Khaskt, Kitra, Mradu, Jahira, etc. ² come from other historical or esoteric sources but have been modified for SV use. Ex.; Magister, Strigoi Vii, Synod, Ipsissimus, etc. ³ are terms which do not hold their dictionary or original meaning such as black swan, Black Veil, Legacy, etc.

The terms here are specifically relate to the Zadyrere (outer mysteries) and are taken from the Sanguinomicon books The Vampyre Prospectus, Coming forth by Day (Liber Jahira), Coming forth by Night (Liber Calmae) and Coming forth by Twilight (Liber MoRoii).

Please note that all words in SV the "Elorathian language" are gender neutral, their English equivalents are sometimes defaulted to male or female at random. For example Kharrus-Templi is a priest/ess of SV, however sometimes they will be referred to as priest and others priestess, depending on the user and at random.

There many be similarities with other traditions (Legacies) of Vampyre / vampire as many of these terms have been used by or originated commonly in the greater vamp subculture. Special thanks goes out to Lord A.: & Madleh as well as Magisters Lucius, Irhandi and Mael for their assistance with this Lexicon.

Please note in conclusion that this Lexicon is a living document and is the most recent version, the 3rd edition, released in January 2009.

Eternally,
Sebastiaan van Houten
Founding Father of the Sanguinarium
